THE NEW MIRROR

Of Literature and the Fine Arts. G. P. MORRIS AND N. P. WILLIS EDITORS.

Good as the Mirror has hitherto been (good enough to prosper) we have edited it as the Israelites built the walls of Jeru salem-with the best hand otherwise employed. The beginnings of all enterprises are difficult-more especially beginnings without capital-and the attention of one editor has been occupied with the management of the machinery now in regular operation, while the other till the concern should be prosperous, was com pelled to labor diligently for other publications. One by one, (to change the figure,) these hindering barnacles have been washed off our keel by going more rapidly ahead, and with the beginning of the third volume, BOTH EDITORS will be EXTREMELY AND EXCLUSIVELY DEVOTED TO THE MIRROR, -- equal to setting studding sails a low and a-lott with the wind dead alt, full and steady. Of course she will now go along "with a bone in her mouth" -as they say of a craft with the foam on her cut-water.

We live in the middle of this somewhat inhabited island of Manhattan, and see most that is worth seeing, and hear most that is worth hearing. After the newpapers have had their pick of the news, we have a trick of making a spicy hash of the remainder, (gleaning a-many choice hit by the way, which had been overlooked or slighted.) and we undertake, hereby, to keep the Mirror up to the times. Every body reads newspapers and gets the outlines of the world's going round-but we shall do just what the newspapers have left undone--fill up the outline--tell you "some more" (as the children say)-put in the lights and shadows of the picture done by newspapers in the rough. It is what we have tried to do in our "Leverto the National Intelligencer," and as our brother editors seem to think we have succeeded, we will, (as we discontinued that correspondence in April,) in rather a more dashing and lighter rein, resume these metropolitan sketches in the Mirror. A secret for your car dear reader -- by selling the plate of each number for half what it is worth, you get the reading for nothing! Each plate is worth a shiling to put in an album-and the whole Mirror costs but sixpence! So it is in fact, for nothing that you get sixteen pages of the literature that we can procure for you, including descriptions of the things of the town that are seldom described and best worth describing. Of course we can only afford this by very small profits on a very large circulation, and ten thousand subscribers are but the turn of the tide. The next ten thousand (into which we are now feeling our way.) will be the first move of the rising tide that overruns into our pockets.

We keep an eye in the back of our head to see if any body is likely to overtake us (and to try their trick before they come along-side) and we keep a look out and on my own account, and hope to share on both sides (from the salient balconies of a fair portion of the patronage of the our imagination) for any stray breeze of planters and other cotton shippers; and novelty for which it is possible to trian pledge that my best exertions shall be used sail. And to show you our hand a li-tle -we have begged (like Eolus,) a breeze or two which we shall reserve awhile for competition. If nothing overhaul us we er, and show our regard for his respecta. affections.

ble sixpence. Our plates, by the way, we undertake the excellence (at least) of those heretofore given. Experience and enquiry, (with a little more money,) make more difference in this branch of our business than of most others.

NOTA BENE--Subscribe in all cases, (if you wish to serve us--do you?) BY LETTER TO OURSELVES. The Postmusters will forward free of expense.

P. S. As to our Extras, they are, to the Booksellers, what the "manna" most have been to the Jew Bakers. You don't need coaxing to help yourselves to any thing so cheap and so heavenly. Take what has tallen, and be sure that more loaves, crisp and satisfying, are baking in the clouds.

TERMS-Three Dollars per annum, in advance.

The first number of the new year will be issued on the 6th day of April next .-The work is sent by mail to all parts of the country. Address (postage free) MORRIS, WILLIS, & CO, Editors and Proprietors.

The Columbian Lady's & Gentleman's Magazine.

On the first of January, 1844, was publish ed, the first number of the Columbian Lady's and Gentleman's Magazine,

EDITED BY JOHN INMAN,

Filled with contributions from the mos eminent and accomplished writers of the country.

THE motives which have led to the commencement of this undertaking may be priefly stated. It is believed by the propretor that there is in the United States an immense provision of literary ability. for which as yet there is no adequate encouragement, or field of display; that besides the num! ers of clever and succe-siu! writers, whose p oductions are weekly. and monthly, and annualty read with delight by thousands, there are yet greater numbers constantly arriving at maturit; of power, who have only to appear on the tage of publication to receive a brilliant lieved, too, that the demand for literary production in this country, especially in When taken according to the directions the periodical channel, exceeds the supply in a very large proportion, and that new supplies have only to be presented of the right quality, and in the right way, to ensure a hearty welcome and profitable reception. No doubt is entertained of the American mind's ability to sustain itselfcertainly on its own ground, if not abroad -against all the competition that the intellect of other lands can bring to the encounter; and full assurance is felt that athere can be, and is, a cordial welcome for excellent and interesting.

From these premises it is undoubtedly inerred, that there is abundant room for another Magazine, notwiths anding the merit there can be no lick of ability to fill its pages acceptibly within the reach of capital and liberal enterprise; and that such a periodical will not fail to be greeted as a welcome visiter by thousands opon thousands, who as yet have done little or nothing toward the support and developement of American periodical literature.

Another and strong motive has been, the teeling that New York, the first city of the Union, should be the home of a periedical owning no superior in either merit

The Columbian Magazine will be pullished on the first day of every month. Its mechanical arrangements will comprise the best paper, type, and workmanship, that money can procure.

Its contributors will be sought for among the ablest and most popular writers in the country; and no efforts will be spared to secure the aid of the most distin-

TENTH VOLUME.

OF THE Southern Literary Messen-FOR 1844.

The present number completes the IXth volume of the Messenger; and the time has arrived for announcing the Xth to its all that American writers can produce of Patrons and the Public. The character and objects of the work are now juily shown, and also how far these objects have been attained. The test of nine years has conclusively shown, that Southern enand success of those already in being, that ergy, ta-te, talent, and liberality, can sustain a Literary journal, juterior to none, and, in the opinion of many impartial judges, superior to all the periodicals publi-hed in the United States. What assurance does not this give for the futuer!-That energy shall not flag; that talent is improved by past exercise, invigorated and polished for yet higher triumphs; sparks are kindled that once appeared to be extinguished; and new-born genins is spreading it- wings for noble flights. That Liberal ity is nourished by renewed prosperity, & men, lately stinted in mental luxury, or naving learned in adversity the cheapness and ble-sedness of Literary soluces and delights, will open purse and heart to receive every pure intellectual offering. The Messenger solicits, nay shall claim their patronage; for its character and contents shall ever be worthy of encouragement & approbation. Relying upon its own excellence, as it always has done, it must and shall prove itself most worthy of support. J. L. Sieph ns, F. G. Halleck, H. W.
